Dr. Berish Cliff - Pickering

Experience with Dr. Berish Cliff: A Cautionary Tale

Located in Pickering, Ontario, Dr. Berish Cliff presents himself as a psychologist available to help individuals navigate their mental health challenges. However, feedback from past clients has raised serious concerns regarding the quality of care provided.

Amenities and Accessibility

When seeking therapy, accessibility is an important factor for many. Dr. Cliff's office offers a wheelchair-accessible toilet and a wheelchair-accessible car park, which caters to individuals with mobility challenges. The intention to prioritize accessibility is commendable, yet the overall experience may leave patients feeling overwhelmed by other issues.

Patient Feedback: A Disturbing Trend

Many clients have reported experiences that contradict the idea of a supportive therapeutic environment. One individual described their session with Dr. Cliff as almost "unbelievable," expressing that they felt belittled and mocked during discussions about their trauma. Instead of receiving empathy, they encountered graphic descriptions of other patients' traumas, which led to a sense of re-traumatization.

Another alarming review mentioned significant organizational issues within the office, emphasizing an inability to provide a necessary prescription copy for insurance purposes. The client noted multiple attempts to resolve this matter, leaving them feeling frustrated and financially burdened. This disorganization could deter individuals who require prompt and efficient service.

The Impact on Healing

One poignant takeaway from these experiences is the impact a therapist can have on one's healing journey. For some clients, the prolonged process of reaching out for help became even longer due to the interactions with Dr. Cliff. The sentiment of not trying hard enough to get better can further exacerbate feelings of inadequacy and despair.

Conclusion

While it's essential to acknowledge the availability of amenities such as a wheelchair-accessible toilet and car park, these factors alone do not guarantee a favorable therapeutic environment. Potential clients should weigh their options carefully and consider the experiences of previous patients before choosing Dr. Berish Cliff as their psychologist in Pickering, Ontario. Ensuring a supportive and understanding therapeutic relationship is crucial for effective healing.
